This is of particular concern for certain occupational groups that are exposed to such hazardous substances over many years at much higher concentrations than the general population. It is well-documented that exposure to some chemical substances and to radiation at high doses causes cancer and genetic mutations ( changes in genetic information ). Not all mutations, however, cause disease ( figure 1-4 ). The relationships between genes, mutations, and disease are becoming clearer with the development of molecular techniques. However, until the health effects of radiation are better understood, genetic and biological monitoring of ex-A Nuclear Power Worker: Controversy continues regarding the carcinogenic effects of radiation in employees of the posed populations can only provide a gross nuclear weapons and nuclear power industries. indication that genetic changes have occurred and that adverse health effects could follow. damage to cells genetic material represents initial Changes in a cells genetic material ( DNA ) can be events in a process that may eventually lead to detected at either the chromosomal level, using disease.
