CITY HOMOEOPATHIC MEDICAL COLLEGE AGAIN. --IS IT WORTHY OF LIFE Dr. H. R. Arndt, Professor of Materia Medica and Therapeutics in the University of Michigan and an author of a System of Homoeopathic Medicine, recently visited Kansas City on his way to California to spend the winter with his wife, who is in ill health. He says, in a letter to the Medical Counsellor, of Ann Arbor: It had been my purpose to find the Homoeopathic College of Kansas City and to satisfy myself concerning its claims upon the confidence of the profession. I was not able to carry out this plan, and had to content myself with merely gazing upon the building in which the institution is located and upon the new sign which indicates the home of this new seat of learning. Discussing the college question with one abundantly able to form a correct opinion and sufficiently candid not to be prejudiced, I was strengthened in the belief already entertained that this new college, if it is to exist, must first undergo a radical reorganization of its faculty, with the view of enlisting in its behalf the cooperation and influence of men who are known to the profession as able and earnest workers, and as men of not only positive convictions in practical therapeutics, but of practical experience as homoeopathic practitioners. As the faculty now stands, it will require, to make it successful, more than the enthusiasm and ability of even so earnest and...
